22. Nonpayment:

If a member fails to pay indebtedness owed to the Club within 30 days of receipt of a second written notice of the amount due, members shall be denied the privileges of the Club until the full indebtedness (membership fee plus late fee) has been paid. Failure to pay obligations to the Club after the second written notice of the amount due is grounds for membership revocation.

23. Payment Information:

All members are strongly encouraged to have their credit card or bank account on file for billing purposes. On the first of each month, the Club will email the member's account statement for the month just ended; the balance is due by the 15th of the following month. CTC will automatically charge the credit card or bank account on file on the following business day. If a member does not have payment information on file, their balance must be paid in full by the 15th of the month. If a member does not pay their balance in full by the 15th of the month, they may lose Club privileges. A pattern of late payments will impact a member's good standing and will be considered as part of upgrade and renewal processes. A member may call the Club Manager about a billing problem at any time.

24. Liability Waiver:

All members must sign a liability waiver as a condition of membership.
